

Change, Willingness & Teachability

There is one constant in your life and that is change. There is one constant in your life and that is change. There is one constant in the believer's life and that is change. Because we are supposed to go from glory to glory and from faith to faith. From what God is speaking, to what we start seeing, to acting accordingly and bring forth this harvest.

To understand what God wants in this hour, we have to in tune more into the Spirit of His power. And we have to be led and guided, beyond the ways that we have walked on before. Because that is what the Spirit is longing for:

To get us to places where we have not been. We have just heard and dreamed about it, but we haven't been. And it is God's desire, that those things, that have not come to and enter in anybody's mind, to be revealed by the Spirit in our hearts.

And there are things that you see and you dream in your heart. And it is real on the inside of you. At times you don't dare to say so. Well the truth is, you are on the right way. Just stay humble and stay teachable and walk closely to the lord, step by step. Because it is the willingness that gets rewarded. And it is the willingness that leads to obedience. Grace is given to the humble and grace is here for you today.
